THE ENGLISH BECOMING VERY FOND OF THEIR AMERICAN COUSINS.

Widely Cherishing Our Play in the Theatre
A Royal Performance in Westminster Abbey
The English are becoming very fond of their American cousins. The English are becoming very fond of their American cousins. The English are becoming very fond of their American cousins.

LONDON, May 4.—There is a significant and remarkable change of late in the attitude of England towards America. All the London dailies, from the beginning of the inauguration ceremonies in New York, have published leaders commenting in the most complimentary fashion on American events. Particular stress is laid on the fact that the American conference in Berlin was carried out in English and that the change in European diplomacy. The change in our favor in other quarters is decided. Last year, about this time, the comedians of different theatres were unceasing in their satire upon things American.

Now the American flag is waving in a number of London theatres, and it is greeted in a fashion that is rather startling. At the most pretentious ballet that London has seen since the parade of soldiers of different nations, the audience expressed its sentiments as the flags are brought forward to national airs. The British flag is, of course, cheered first, then comes the German standard amid hisses and shrieks of Bismarck, after which there is a loud and noisy demonstration against the Italian Imperial standard. At the tail end of the procession a score of Yankee middle-brows bring the American flag down to the footlights. I think everybody was surprised at the reception the flag received on the first night. Prolonged applause turned into cheering, and ever since the flag has been played a most conspicuous part in the spectacle.

In the Gaiety and Avenue Theatres the flag is also produced alongside the British colors with an effect that is more striking, since the flag is so seldom cheered in public at home. Outside the special celebrations in honor of Washington's inauguration the most conspicuous American event of the week was the Walter carried off at the general. Consul-General carried off at the general. Consul-General carried off at the general.

Madrid was private view day at the Royal Academy, and more distinguished people were gathered there, probably, than can be seen together in London during the rest of the year. Mr. Gladstone was one of the first arrivals. He wore a black velvet cap and a weather-beaten silk hat, and looked as vigorous and as alert as ever.

most wonderful of all dresses yesterday. The body was of electric blue satin draped with Chantilly net and lace, trimmed with ostrich feathers. A train falling from the shoulders was of blue velvet, with blue satin and trimmed with feathers. Her ladyship is a fine woman, and was able to bear it all without fear of her personality being dwarfed.

Negotiations and diplomacy of the most masterly order are being employed by the titled friends and connections of Viscount Danvers, with the ultimate hope of making some arrangement with Miss Phyllis Broughton, who dances in abbreviated skirts in comic opera by night and employs a horde of clever lawyers during the day. At present the chances are in favor of a $50,000 verdict for the dancer.

There has been this week a stir in the British religious world equal to that set going on your side by Bishop Potter. Mr. Spurgeon opened with vigorous attacks upon the Rev. Dr. Cudford, president of the Baptist Union for April, a service in the South Place Chapel, Mr. Spurgeon was in the pulpit, and he was charged by the committee and secularists. Mr. Spurgeon wonders how a man professing to be a servant of Christ could associate himself with such a place. Clifford is nursing his wrath until to-morrow, when from his own pulpit he will deliver a reply. Another matter of personal concern to Mr. Spurgeon is the Rev. Dr. Cudford, president of the Baptist Union for April, a service in the South Place Chapel, Mr. Spurgeon was in the pulpit, and he was charged by the committee and secularists.

live on more than four times one's income. Captain Honorable Spencer Hanbury, the eldest son of Lord Bateman, was before the Bankruptcy Court yesterday. His liabilities were $28,000, and his assets $1,500. At one time he had an allowance of $1800 a year from his father and £500 a year. When the son's pay was increased by £80 a year Papa Bateman stopped the allowance.

The bankrupt admitted that he had lived at the rate of $10,000 a year. He said that what he had done was to live on his father's money, and when pressed said $100,000, which seems quite considerable when compared with his income. He had also lost about $100,000 betting, and had never won anything. Although barred from betting at Tattersall's on account of his bankruptcy, he still continued to throw money through commission agents.

Racing men in England are buffeted by doubt and uncertainty. No season of recent years has been so disastrous to the public as the defeat of Wiseman, for the Suburban was an event of insignificant consequence with the poor horsemen, but some of the best horses of the season were both looked upon as winners. These horses were both looked upon as winners of the Bank of England in solidly. There must have been something wrong with Donovan, and probably the running for the Derby will shed a lot of light on the 2,000 Guinea race. It is a surprising thing that though Enthusiast won the 2,000 Guinea race, Donovan is still the favorite for the Derby, being backed at two to one since he lost it. He is a tall, round-shouldered, and amiable young man, with a receding chin and rather prominent nose. His amiability is boundless. He said that people seemed to have a good deal of interest in the fact that he never wore a shirt.

LIFE SAVING IN EARNEST.

THE FIRE DRILL TURNED INTO REAL WORK BY AN ACCIDENT.

Fireman Brennan saved Fireman Byrnes in Presence of the Crowd Assembled to See the Annual Parade.—The Medal Winners.

Yesterday was the great day of the year for the boys of the fire department. It was the day of the presentation of the Bennett and Stephenson medals, the former for heroism and the latter for excellence as a fireman. Four medals were presented, two in each class, the awards for 1887 not having been made last year. The Bennett medal for 1888 was awarded to Fireman John Brennan, and the Stephenson medal for 1887 went to Assistant Fireman Samuel Banta of 10 Truck. The Stephenson medal to the fireman of the best disciplined company for 1887 went to William McLaughlin of 24 Engine, while the same medal for 1888 was placed on the breast of Thomas Henry of 7 Engine.

The presentation of the medals, as usual, took place in the plaza on the north side of Union square. The big grand stand of the centennial parade on the southern side of the square was filled with people. The hour of the presentation was set for 9 o'clock in the afternoon, and the stand was packed with people. The firemen of the 24 Engine, and the Seventeenth street side of the square held big crowds. On a little dais, just above the stand, stood the firemen of the 24 Engine, and the Seventeenth street side of the square held big crowds. The firemen marched into the plaza from the 24 Engine at 2 1/2 o'clock. The people on the stand and in the streets and on the tops of buildings looked on with interest. The firemen were all in parade uniform, wearing fatigue caps and white gloves. They were in two lines, and the crowd was very large. THE EMMA BURDICK MURDER.

Little Evidence to Convict Mrs. Eva M. Crosby of the Crime.

NORWICH, N. Y., May 4.—The interest which has been manifested over the trial of Mrs. Eva M. Crosby for the murder of Emma Jane Burdick seems to increase rather than to abate, the court room being crowded from the opening of this morning to the adjournment of the afternoon session. The jury, who were sworn yesterday, are all men, and are eagerly listened for any evidence which might throw some light on the cloud of mystery which surrounds the murder. The prosecution was reopened this morning, the first witness called being Mandeville Crosby, who testified that the prisoner threatened to make away with him if he did not reveal the fact that her husband killed the girl.

Ex-Judge Stratton of Oxford testified that when the Crosby woman was before him on the charge of stealing a shawl she said that if she was prosecuted she would reveal a murder, and gave several conflicting stories she told her husband of the murder of Emma Jane Burdick. The jury, who were sworn yesterday, are all men, and are eagerly listened for any evidence which might throw some light on the cloud of mystery which surrounds the murder.

GOV. HILL'S BACHELOR DAYS.

Will be Over, His Friends Think. Ere the Month of Honeymoon is Over.

The story of Gov. Hill's engagement to Miss Hotchkiss, daughter of the United States Consul at Ottawa, was revived yesterday. Intimate friends of the Governor said that the marriage would take place "within a reasonable time," and that it may be next month. If not then, it would be postponed until the fall, but they rather thought it would be as soon as the Governor could get away from the Republican Legislature. The session ends May 16. Miss Hotchkiss and her chaperone, with Gov. Hill's private secretary, W. G. Rice, were at the Victoria on Tuesday, and saw the Governor lead the 12,000 gallant New York militia up Fifth avenue.

MRS. RAMSEY'S AFFECTIONS.

Her Husband Rames, a Ryeponer Alienated Them, and Wastes $55,000.

Daniel H. Rames, a young carpenter of Ramsey, N. J., has begun suit for divorce against George I. Ryeponer, a storekeeper of Ramsey, for $50,000 damages on charge of alienating his wife's affections. Mrs. Ramsey was formerly Miss Annie Benton. In 1884 she married the courtier and social climber, and married with him a young man who was a clerk in the office of the Rev. Luther A. Burall. She swore that she had been forced to marry him; that she did so through fear. The courts granted her motion and she returned to her home in Ramsey. Two years later she married a man who was a clerk in the office of the Rev. Luther A. Burall. She swore that she had been forced to marry him; that she did so through fear. The courts granted her motion and she returned to her home in Ramsey.

Mrs. Ramsey spent the summer among her friends in Ramsey. The complaint alleges that she was alienated from her husband by the attentions of George I. Ryeponer, a storekeeper of Ramsey, for $50,000 damages on charge of alienating his wife's affections. Mrs. Ramsey was formerly Miss Annie Benton. In 1884 she married the courtier and social climber, and married with him a young man who was a clerk in the office of the Rev. Luther A. Burall. She swore that she had been forced to marry him; that she did so through fear. The courts granted her motion and she returned to her home in Ramsey.

THE NEWTON BURIAL TROUBLES.

The Board of Health Vindicates a Point at the Request of the Undertakers.

The Board of Health of Newton held a meeting yesterday morning. The proceedings were private. A number of undertakers had a hearing. They protested against the section of the rules which required that a body should be buried within twenty-four hours of death, which provides that no grave shall be reopened until a sworn statement of the cause of death of the person or persons previously interred in such grave, together with the number and names of the persons who were buried in the grave, is filed with the Board of Health. They requested that it should not go into effect until it should be amended so as to require that it should be filed with the Board of Health.

MRS. ACKER WILL RECOVER.

She Says that Undoubtedly Her Husband Who Shot Her is Insane.

Mrs. Henry C. Ackor, who was shot by her husband in her hotel, the Hurrell House, at East Norwich, L. I., on Sunday evening, will recover. The weapon used was a double-barreled shotgun. Ackor fired both barrels at his wife. One charge struck her in the chest, the other one tore her left hand almost to pieces. It was amputated above the wrist. Mrs. Ackor said that her husband was a drunkard, and that he was insane. She said that she was a widow, and that she was a mother of three children.
